

The Journal of the American Podiatric Medical Association (JAPMA), the official journal of the association, is the oldest and most frequently cited peer-reviewed journal in the profession of foot and ankle medicine. Founded in 1907 and published online six times per year, JAPMA showcases research studies, case reports, literature reviews, special communications, clinical correspondence, letters to the editor, book reviews, and various other types of submissions. The journal is included in major indexing and abstracting services for biomedical literature.
