DEAR COLLEAGUE:

Welcome to the 2022 APMA Annual Scientific Meeting (The National)!

The National is truly the must-attend event for every podiatrist, covering the entire spectrum of foot and ankle care and representing every voice in podiatric medicine and surgery. This year, once again, we have organized all of our outstanding content into two convenient tracks: One track will cover medical topics, while the other will focus on surgical topics.

We’ll jump right into educational sessions on Thursday, including an opening address from our colleague Michael DeGere, DPM, MBA. As a health system executive, Dr. DeGere will share his perspective on podiatry’s role in health-care leadership and population health. On Thursday afternoon, join us for the grand opening of our expansive exhibit hall.

On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, there will be hands-on workshops (ask about availability of slots at Registration if you have not already signed up), and our popular surgical blitz sessions take place on Friday and Saturday. On Friday, faculty and residency directors will enjoy an APMA-American Board of Podiatric Medicine Educators’ Forum, and on Saturday, we encourage all attendees to come out to support their alma mater at the fifth Podiatry School Student Quiz Bowl. Also on Saturday, enjoy the latest science shaping the practice of podiatry at our oral abstracts session and the poster abstracts symposium. Sunday will deliver the unmatched Harry Goldsmith, DPM, Memorial Coding Seminar.

Don’t miss important opportunities to supplement your continuing education throughout the meeting. On Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, you’ll have the chance to attend non-CECH symposia on a wide variety of topics. And don’t forget to visit our Innovation Cafés in the exhibit hall during the grand opening on Thursday and during the Friday and Saturday morning scanning breaks. Rest your feet, help yourself to a cup of coffee, and listen to a sponsored talk. Finish up your day on Friday and Saturday by attending the new Innovation After Hours evening receptions to learn about industry products and services while enjoying refreshments.

As always, one of the greatest benefits of The National is the camaraderie. Young physicians won’t want to miss the Young Physicians’ Reception in the APMA Career Center booth (#607) during the grand opening of the exhibit hall on Thursday. On Saturday morning, we welcome back the traditional, in-person Team APMA 5K Run/Walk benefiting the APMA Educational Foundation.

Be sure to take some time outside of the educational program to peruse our vast exhibit hall and thank the many great companies on hand to share their products and services and support podiatric medicine.

I extend my sincere thanks to our outstanding sponsors who have made this event possible for APMA and its attendees. We are fortunate to enjoy the support of these wonderful companies that play a vital role in our podiatry community.

Most importantly, I thank you for being here. It is a pleasure to welcome you all to Orlando, FL, for what promises to be an outstanding meeting.

APMA welcomes your feedback as The National evolves to meet the changing needs of the podiatric community. The meeting evaluation will be available soon after the close of the meeting. We look forward to delivering an exceptional event.

Sincerely,

Laura J. Pickard, DPM
President

Keynote speaker Michael W. DeGere, DPM, MBA, is a 1999 graduate of Dr. William M. Scholl College of Podiatric Medicine and practiced podiatry in Wisconsin and Ohio for 15 years. After serving as chief of Surgery and chief of staff at St. Agnes Hospital in Fond du Lac, WI, he entered full-time executive leadership in 2014. Dr. DeGere was soon promoted to vice president of population health for the SSM Health Wisconsin Region, and in 2021, he became vice president and chief medical officer for Froedert Health – Holy Family Memorial in Manitowoc, WI. Dr. DeGere’s opening address provides an executive’s perspective on podiatrists’ key role in medical staff leadership and improving population health. The opening session also includes an update from APMA President Laura J. Pickard, DPM, and formal recognition of the leadership and contributions of Barney Greenberg, DPM, to APMAPAC, upon his retirement.

Support Our Humanitarian Effort

The National is all about community: a community of professionals supporting each other and our patients. This year, join APMA in supporting our global community, as well. APMA is partnering with Samaritan’s Feet, a nonprofit humanitarian aid organization that provides shoes to those in need worldwide.

Samaritan’s Feet has provided over 8.7 million pairs of shoes to children, seniors, refugees, those experiencing homelessness, and families in 108 countries and over 530 US cities. Recently, Samaritan’s Feet sent 5,000 pairs of shoes to Poland for Ukrainian refugees, as well as launched Samaritan’s Feet Seniors to provide a pair of anti-slip, lightweight shoes to the elderly. Additionally, Samaritan’s Feet has developed the World Shoe, a new tool in the fight against neglected tropical diseases. The World Shoe is prophylactic footwear that adds disinfectant technologies and biodegradation accelerants to the proven protection of proper footwear.

Visit the Samaritan’s Feet booth (#625) in the exhibit hall to support this important effort with your contributions of footwear or financial support. During the grand opening of the exhibit hall, APMA member Alex Kor, DPM, MS, who has worked closely with Samaritan’s Feet on the effort to support Ukrainian refugees in Europe, will be present to greet attendees and exhibitors and talk more about the effort to give shoes and give hope to those in need.

PODIATRIC PHYSICIANS

APMA is approved by the Council on Podiatric Medical Education (CPME) as a provider of continuing education in podiatric medicine. APMA has approved this activity for a maximum of 27.5* continuing education contact hours (CECH). Approval of the program has been requested from all state licensing boards.

In accordance with CPME requirements, APMA is required to monitor educational session attendance for CECH verification.

Badges are bar-coded with your personal information and must be scanned.

Attendees will receive an email from APMA Online CECH following the meeting when the scanning data has been uploaded to the APMA Online Learning Center. There you will complete the evaluation form and download your certificate of attendance.

Podiatric physicians are responsible for reporting their attendance to all appropriate boards and agencies requiring continuing education. Credits may be registered with state boards by providing them with a copy of your CECH certificate.

PODIATRIC MEDICAL ASSISTANTS

APMA is approved by the Commission on Accreditation of Podiatric Medical Assisting Certification (CAPMAC) as a sponsor of continuing education in podiatric medical assisting. Program participants may earn up to 27.5* CECH. Only 20 credits are required per year for certification renewal.

In accordance with CAPMAC requirements, APMA is required to monitor educational session attendance for CECH verification.

Badges are bar-coded with your personal information and must be scanned.

Attendees will receive an email from APMA Online CECH following the meeting when the scanning data has been uploaded to the APMA Online Learning Center. There you will complete the evaluation form and download your certificate of attendance.

Podiatric medical assistants are responsible for reporting their attendance to the recertification committee.

NOTE: CECH functions are for registered attendees only. APMA’s official policy is to provide attendees with a certificate of attendance that reflects only the number of CECH scanned. To receive the maximum number of CECH, you must be scanned at each of the listed scanning sessions.

This number is based on attendance at all general session lectures, breakfast symposia, plenary lectures, and the APMA Poster Abstracts Symposium. Podiatric physicians who register for and attend Workshop 1: Biopsies and Plastic Techniques may earn an additional 1.5 CECH.

Continuing Education
Educational Program Objectives

AT THE CONCLUSION OF THIS PROGRAM, ATTENDEES WILL:

• summarize the epidemiology of peripheral arterial disease (PAD), describe common lower extremity arterial lesions/pathology and the importance of screening for PAD, especially in patients with certain risk factors, and recognize when referral to interventional radiology is appropriate;

• discuss surgical pearls in a variety of lesser MPJ surgical procedures; recognize the anatomy and biomechanics that would lead a surgeon to select a particular procedure to correct lesser MPJ pathology; and discuss indications, surgical principles, techniques, and fixation options for common lesser MPJ procedures;

• recall the role sharp debridement plays in the bacterial load and healing of chronic wounds, recognize and manage bacterial load and biofilms, discuss the importance of appropriate wound bed preparation to the success of wound healing, recognize micro- and macro-nutrients and how to utilize different vitamins to stimulate wound healing, describe how glucose levels affect wound healing, and recognize when referral to a dietitian is appropriate;

• list the increased health risks associated with obesity and chronic disease and how obesity affects podiatric outcomes, describe postoperative care and wound healing concerns in obese patients and recognize the bias physicians may have with obese patients, restate how obese patients perceive their treatment in the healthcare system, and summarize how to address/combat the biases against obese patients to help them feel more included and understood;

• describe foot- and ankle-related complications within the limb preservation patient, discuss surgical options for Charcot neuroarthropathy, cite cutting-edge technologies for limb preservation techniques, and review evidence-based medicine and how it applies to limb preservation;

• recognize clinical situations in which use of plastic surgery techniques will be most beneficial for patient success, describe how single- and multi-lobed flaps provide coverage, apply podiatric plastics techniques on a variety of tissue defects, and describe how to manipulate cadaveric skin tissue to gain appreciation for proper tissue/flap handling;

• review the current state of biomarker discovery in diabetic foot ulcers, describe the current state of the Diabetic Foot Consortium (DFC) including the ongoing studies and how the DFC-supported clinical research site network may serve as an excellent resource for rigorous wound healing clinical trials, review the concept of wound hygiene to control biofilm, evaluate how biofilms and bioburden impair healing in chronic wounds, review recent advanced wound imaging tools and how to implement them into practice, and explain indications for skin substitutes;

• describe complications and treatment algorithms for common foot and ankle surgery complications; restate harvest locations and application of bone autograft to address non-union complications in foot and ankle surgery; discuss staged management of infection complications in foot and ankle surgery including laboratory work-up and the use of local antibiotic delivery techniques to help with osteomyelitis; cite treatment options for failed first ray surgery including the use of bone graft, arthrodesis, and fixation modifications to improve outcomes; restate treatment options for failed PTTD (posterior tibial tendon dysfunction surgery) including the use of arthrodesis and fixation modifications to improve outcomes; and explain complications in foot and ankle surgery and the use of 3D patient-specific implants to overcome deformity and bone loss to improve outcomes;

• recognize dermatological conditions that present in the lower extremity, explain effective management of skin conditions and infections and how to incorporate this information into practice, and be able to develop differential diagnoses to include uncommon dermatological and systemic conditions;
Educational Program Objectives

• explain proper documentation and compliance as related to postoperative pain management, and describe multimodal postoperative pain management and how it reduces reliance on opioids through use of non-opioid analgesics that have different mechanisms of action;

• recognize factors that have limited ultrasound adoption by podiatrists, review ultrasound equipment options and potential benefits, identify clinical conditions that lend themselves to diagnosis with ultrasound, and explore new care delivery models that incorporate routine use of bedside imaging;

• summarize the unique nail changes inherent in skin of color patients and the disparity that exists in the literature, identify the characteristics that make diagnosing skin cancer in skin of color patients challenging, determine the needs of skin care in skin of color patients, and describe the levels of erythema and treatment needs in rashes for skin of color patients;

• explain the anatomy of the plantar plate and options for surgical repair, restate when to operate on a pediatric digital deformity, describe surgical technique pearls for the early and full weight-bearing lapidus bunionectomy, determine when to use or not use phalangeal osteotomies for hallux valgus, identify surgical treatment options for lower extremity scars, discuss patient selection for minimal invasive surgery for the forefoot, describe rearfoot biomechanics and when to fix flatfoot in presence of a bunion, and outline surgical techniques to treat common diabetic foot ulcerations;

• compare current trends in athletic footwear and how footwear can be used as both treatment and prevention tools for specific patient populations, recognize common sports injuries in children and understand special evaluation and management techniques to better address this special patient population, describe various biomechanical principles and how they relate to writing prescriptions for the best orthotic for active patients, recall how a sports medicine podiatrist uses knowledge of biomechanics to help best treat athletes, and discuss how prevention is an important arm of sports medicine;

• restate how to improve patient outcomes and learn new skills in plantar plate injuries; describe the pathoanatomy, measurement and treatment interventions for first ray hypermobility; discuss neurectomy versus decompression versus other surgical options for Morton’s neuroma and identify potential complications with neuroma surgery; and summarize non-fusion surgical options for hallux rigidus and the importance of patient selection by procedure type;

• demonstrate basic and advanced elements of diagnostic foot and ankle ultrasound examinations and ultrasound-guided aspirations and injections of the lower extremity;

• summarize how to provide a psychologically safe learning environment for podiatric medical students, residents, and fellows; recall how to use every patient as a learning opportunity; recognize a variety of teaching techniques and styles to improve educators’ ability to teach surgical skills; and become familiar with an evidence-based approach to running a journal club effectively;

• discuss the role of diagnostic ultrasound in joint assessment, early assessment of osteophytic proliferation, screening for osteomyelitis, assessing wounds, and the assessment of Lis Franc injuries; describe the benefits of a standardized approach to radiographic interpretation; appreciate the timing and intervals for taking radiographs when assessing infectious processes; be cognizant of underutilized projections that will assist in diagnosing pathology; recall how the assessment of biomechanical findings on radiographs assists in patient care; summarize the limitations of plain film radiology; describe which disorders are best imaged using MRI and why; determine best imaging options for various pathological processes and the anticipated results; and discuss how to properly order an MRI and determine use of contrast;

• manage the pediatric and adult foot and ankle trauma patient, discuss how to build relationships with emergency department personnel, and restate the latest treatment for both geriatric and pediatric ankle fractures;
Educational Program Objectives

- recall how to foster individuality and growth in podiatric medical students, residents, and fellows by improving emotional intelligence, learning to provide feedback in a positive fashion, reducing conflict, and understanding remediation;
- describe how to effectively refer patients to other doctors and specialists, recognize considerations in determining patient care and treatment, identify common mistakes in documentation practices that leave physicians vulnerable to liability claims, describe how to communicate effectively with patients and why it is important, and recall why honesty is still and always will be the best policy;

In today’s insurance environment many patients face high out-of-pocket expenses, including deductibles and co-insurance, that can be an obstacle to getting the treatment they really want and need. The CareCredit credit card provides a convenient payment solution that helps patients fit out-of-pocket expenses into their monthly budget.

How your patients can use CareCredit:

- They can use their card and choose a promotional financing option on purchases of $200 or more.*
- You get paid in two business days, with no responsibility if the cardholder delays or defaults.¹
- They can use their CareCredit card at every visit without re-applying*— so they’re always prepared with a way to pay.
